Pamela Denney has worked as a writer and editor for newspapers and magazines for more than 25 years. After graduating from Syracuse University, she worked as a reporter for the Danville Register in Danville, Virginia, and then relocated to Los Angeles, joining Copley Los Angeles Newspapers as a wire editor, copy editor and city editor. She is now a journalism professor at the University of Memphis and the food editor for Memphis magazine, where she reviews restaurants and writes the magazine's food blog called Memphis Stew.

Thanks to this book, my husband and I were able to find a good restaurant wherever we were in Memphis and we enjoyed every meal! The book is also just fun to read for learning about Memphis.

This book has been great for me as I have recently moved into this foodcentric city. Barbecue is just one thing that one should look for when hungry in Memphis, and the Food Lover's Guide directs a newbie to the other goodies that the city has to offer.

Spot-on reviews of all the best places to fuel up in and around Memphis. Wouldn't have made it to Velvet Cream in Hernendo, MS in a million years without it!

love it!

My son recently relocated to Memphis and found this book to be perfect to finding great restaurants. Easy to read and great information for new comers to a city full of fantastic small unique restaurants. Definitely a must have!
