Pat Cunningham is a professor of education at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. Pat has taught first grade, fourth grade, and remedial reading and has over 30 years of teaching experience. She is involved in staff development with teachers and administrators across the United States. Pat was inducted into the International Reading Association's Reading Hall of Fame in 2002.

This is just what I needed for the students in my 2nd grade class. I like the systematic, progressive way it introduces new words and parts of words in a way that's fun for kids. For me, I like the fact that I don't have to set anything up in order to use it. I could photocopy the letters for my students or just give them a strip of paper and let them write the letters on that, cut them out and voila! All done! It's a great teaching and learning tool that's easy to use, addresses the needs of medium to high learners and is fun!

My class loves to "make words"! It starts off with easy words that elicited groans, but they soon realized that the words became more sophisticated! I love the word wall template, which I made into a poster at school to record our words. Wish I had bought it in September! Will definitely start off next year using it!

This was recommended to me by a reading specialist for use in my special education classroom. It provides practice for phonics and spelling, and it can be used by regular education elementary teachers, as well as, middle school special education teachers for teaching learning disabled students. I have used this in my classroom of middle school students, and they are ALL engaged. The activities are short and fast moving. They are inexpensive to reproduce, and the activities are scripted so they require very little planning and preparation.

Excellent book. Bought to use as a summer tutoring tool.....will plan to incorporate it into my classroom.

Spelling is a struggle for my boys (1st and 3rd grade) so this was recommended by a teacher we knew. It is very interactive & fun and spelling is now their favorite subject. I highly recommend it (especially for boys) because my kids love uncovering the secret big word. :-)

I am using this book with an 18 year old young man who is learning English as a second language. He likes manipulating the plastic letter that I purchased to make even larger words.

Have used it before for spelling with struggling older children. I have now implemented it again in new class with my own copy.

Great word work for upper grades students.
