I found this to be a very Bible based book. Omojola walks you through breaking the yoke of naught. I need to work on my being slower to anger. He gives an interesting discussion about not only civil law and law in the New Testament, but gives a noteworthy discussion of Christ interpretation of the law. The chapter on breaking the yoke of religion was a great chapter. He urges us to line up with divine truth instead of blindly following any of the four major religions. The chapter on breaking the yoke of fear was not worthy as well. There is so much violence and suffering today that it is easy to be afraid and discouraged. The last chapter dealt with perfect submission. He talks about how Jesus teaches freedom to those who obey His word (see Jn. 8:31-32, 36). I would recommend this book to those who are trying to live their best life in Christ. This book is a part of a three book series. The other books are "How to Make Heaven" and "Living Beyond Yourself."
