Gadgetology: Kitchen Fun With Your Kids, Using 35 Cooking Gadgets For Simple Recipes, Crafts, Games, And Experiments

Synopsis

Getting kids involved in the kitchen at an early age is a great, hands-on way to introduce them to new foods and teach them valuable skills. Gadgetology makes it fun—kids and parents alike will love this activity book, chock-full of experiments, recipes, and games using 35 kitchen gadgets. Parents will appreciate spending quality time with their children, broadening their kitchen horizons at an early age. Children will love using “grown-up” gadgets—from an apple peeler to a whisk—to play games, try simple recipes, make crafts, and conduct fun experiments. A box grater is certainly handy for shredding mozzarella to make Super Easy Lasagna, but it’s also great for shredding crayons onto wax paper to be ironed into stained glass. Leftover walnut shells cracked with a nutcracker for Fudgy Walnut Brownies turn into perfect sailboats. In Gadgetology, Pam Abrams offers so many creative, fun, and safe uses for everyday gadgets that the kitchen will become an educational playground.

Got this for my 6 year old great nephew who loves to cook and do science in the kitchen. It looks like so much fun and has great illustrations!

I have given these to family and friends with small children! Great intro to cooking and fun for all.

I got this as a gift for my sister-in-law who retired from teaching this year. Every week she bakes with her granddaughters. This was a HUGE hit!!!

This book is fun for a child who enjoys learning to cook as well as some simple science experiments using cooking utensils. My grandson has already had fun with several of them. I recommend it for parents or grandparents to do with their young ones.

Profusely illustrated throughout with the full-color photography of Mellisa Punch, "Gadgetology" is a lively and 'kid friendly' collection of do-it-yourself instructions for recipe, crafts, games, and experimental projects utilizing thirty-five different kitchen implements or 'gadgets' common to any home. Kids can build an edible log cabin with an apple corer, make a strawberry taste like orange juice with a marinade injector, write secret messages in a lemon juice based invisible ink and the use of a citrus squeezer, make a jelly bean nest with a garlic press, and so much more! Fun and informative, "Gadgetology" is a unique and enthusiastically recommended addition to any family or community library children's activities reference collection.

This book is so much fun to use, and is gorgeous to look at. Having projects that you can do with your child by just going to the kitchen and using tools and food you already own is such a fabulous idea. So many project books for kids require items you have to go out and get especially for the project --- not very convenient for spur of the moment fun. This book makes it easy to be spontaneous. And you'll have as much fun as your child! My eight year old and three year old both love it. I highly recommend this book!

This book is full of fun things to do as a family. What a treat.
