The Essential Hopi Prophecies

Synopsis

The Hopi are Southwestern Native Americans dwelling in Pueblos of Oraibi. These are the oldest continuously inhabited settlements in North America dating back as far as 1100 C.E. Up until the mid-twentieth century, the Hopi kept a secret, an oral tradition of foreknowledge—signs presaging an end of an old and perhaps a beginning of a new world. The milestones listed are specific. For instance, they anticipated the coming of the white people from the East bearing their sign of the cross, herding their long-horned cattle and the first sign of wheels came to Hopi lands attached to their covered wagons. The iron roads with their iron horses, the iron ropes suspended in the air (telegraph wires) and later the “cobwebs” of airplane contrails crisscrossing the skies, all fulfilled the opening prophetic stages indicating that the Great Purification by Fire was at hand. The test firing of the first atomic bomb in 1945, not far from Hopi lands in neighboring New Mexico prompted the Hopi to end their centuries of silence. The “Gourd of Ashes” had arrived, the shape of its rising mushroom cloud foretold in the metaphor of a round gourd stood on its long neck. It was the Hopi elders’ cue that it was time to reveal to people of all races a short list of final warnings heralding the world’s purification either by the fire of nuclear war and runaway global warming, or by a fire of a burning love and conscious concern for the Earth and each other. Once again author and prophecy scholar John Hogue takes a large and involved prophetic subject and distills it down to its essentials for a quick and comprehensive read that includes the shared visions of many Native American nations about the coming of the Europeans to North America and the death and renewal of our world. “I have known John Hogue for fifteen years, during which time he has appeared on my radio program many, many times. Every year, he predicts on the program in the first quarter and we hold his feet to the fire” during the summer. And every year, he proves to be fireproof. He’s accurate. Uncannily accurate. • Whitley Strieber, author of “Communion” and “The Coming Global Superstorm” with Art Bell

John Hogue is author of 600 articles and 30 published books (1,160,000 copies sold) spanning 20 languages. He has predicted the winner of every US Presidential Election since 1968, giving him a remarkable 12 and 0 batting average. Hogue is a world-renowned expert on the prophecies of Nostradamus and other prophetic traditions. He claims to focus on interpreting the world's ancient-to-modern prophets and prophecies with fresh eyes, seeking to connect readers with the shared and collective visions of terror, wonder and revelation about the future in a conversational narrative style. Hogue says the future is a temporal echo of actions initiated today. He strives to take readers "back to the present"• empowering them to create a better destiny through accessing the untapped potentials of free will and meditation.

The book is well-written and well-researched. The fact that so many of the prophecies have already happened definitely gives one pause. I love the Hopi approach to nature and spirituality. They are definitely a gentle and loving people with no history of violence that I know of, unlike so many other cultures. There is no way to say whether they are right, but it looks to me like we are in for a big change.

I was looking forward to reading John Hogue's The Essential Hopi Prophecies and was not disappointed. Having met Hopi elders and artists and medicine men there on the reservation, I was pleased that someone as erudite as John Hogue would share first hand knowledge from this very civil ancient civilization and their very real concerns for our sacred mother earth. At this point in our history and with the proliferation of more and more atomic weapons being created in our world...perhaps, it is prudent to pay attention to the old wise ones. I highly recommend for everyone to read The Essential Hopi Prophecies with an open mind and heart.

At least a bit more orderly than the other Hopi prophecy mini-book I read. Although at the end, it got a bit scattered, caught up in other, multiple prophecies. Too much advertising of other books, but otherwise a decent read.

I have been familiar with some of the Hopi prophecies from my past associations with friends and teachers and John's Book is the compilation I have read about the prophecies and in his very readable writing style which I very much enjoy. All of the prophecies except for the ones related to our immediate future have come true and it will be very interesting times we are living in when contrasted with John's Predictions for 2015-2016 Can we change our future? I certainly hope that we can help lessen the severity of what the future is bringing, and knowledge is key, and I thank John for providing a wonderful forum for that
