Kindergarten-Grade 3 "Twas Halloween night, and all through the house/Every creature was stirring, including the mouse." With text echoing the classic Christmas poem, the opening spread features a brightly lit mansion and pulls even the most reluctant readers into this holiday story. Out come bats, spiders, witches, ogres, ghosts, and banshees, all excitedly preparing a spectacular buffet for young trick-or-treaters. Their work backfires, however, when the children peek into the spooky house: "But what they saw on that shadowy night/Made each little trickster shiver with fright!" Murray's smooth rhyming text combines well with Dorman's vibrant and extraordinarily detailed digital art, with surprises on every page. This is an energetic romp with a satisfying conclusion that will be a fun read-aloud for wide-eyed children anxiously awaiting the holiday. —Lee Bock, Glenbrook Elementary School, Pulaski, WI Copyright © Reed Business Information, a division of Reed Elsevier Inc. Beautifully illustrated and a wonderful take on "Twas the Night before Christmas." I highly recommend it to anyone who enjoys Halloween young and old alike. (I bought one for my nephew and turned right around and ordered another for myself once I got a look at it!)

This is such a cool book! It's a really neat simple story that doesn't get in the way of the illustrations, where there's so much going on- in a great way! It gives you that hectic chaotic joyful feeling of Halloween to see all the different kinds of ghoulish messing around and partying. Very cool.

Great illustrations and cute story, the Halloween version of 'Twas the Night Before Christmas.

Great story for my Halloween story

My Halloween-story-loving 4-year-old son loves this book! But it freaks him out just a little. Freaks my 3-year-old out even more. But they still like to read it! The story is kind of creepy- with REAL ghouls and ghosts and body part pictures. Illustrated, of course, but still kind of creepy. The story is fun, though, and the pictures are great. My kids really enjoy reading this. It's just that in a lot of Halloween stories, the ghouls, ghosts, and goblins turn out to be people dressed up like them, or they end with everyone getting along. At the end of this book, the kids run away scared to death, while the scary guys end their party. Soooooo, the moral of this story is: This book is kind of creepy, but fun for older kids!

This is such a great Halloween book. The illustrations are magical and bring the fun spirit of Halloween without being overly scary. The story flows really well and keeps the kids attention. I read it in my son's second grade class as a guest reader and they all loved the book.

Love this!! I collect children's Halloween books as reference material. Love the illustrator's, Brandon Dorman, style and the use of perspective and lighting. Really cool. I really appreciate good artwork and this doesn't disappoint. Even as just a children's book think this is great.

I bought this for my 3 year old back around Halloween. It is now March and it is still in our regular bed time story rotation and is frequently his top pick. He loves all the different characters described in the story and loves looking for them in the illustrations. We still seem to find new things each time we read it.
